GOSSIP OF THE STREET
BROKERS APPROVE LOVETT'S
PLAIN CONCERNING RAILROADS

Comment Favorably on Clear and Concise Statement of Actual Conditions—Gossip of the Street

The cheerful atmosphere of Friday last pervaded the financial district during the half session on Saturday. One of the most frequent topics of discussion was in relation to the report of the previous day about the railroads. This apparently well authenticated report was to the effect that the railroads are to be returned at the end of this year, and that the government guarantee is to be continued for two years more. The favorable comments on this temporary settlement of the railroad question were referred to in this column on Saturday.

In many brokers' offices on Saturday there was very favorable comment on the statement of Judge Lovett concerning the railroads when he appeared before the House interstate and foreign commerce committee. This was spoken of as a clear, concise statement of actual conditions. It was said by one broker that if the roads are to be turned back and the government guarantee continued for two more years, such a move would meet Judge Lovett's argument that the question before Congress is to find out how to get the capital necessary to keep up railroad facilities for national needs. Such an arrangement, it was said, would have a tendency to draw the new capital necessary to the roads, and give sufficient time to find a permanent solution to the railroad middle.

A banker said that the test of government operation had been unfair, as conditions are abnormal, but with proper government supervision for two years under normal conditions it would be easier to arrive at an unprejudiced conclusion.

A well-known investment banker said he was pleased to see Judge Lovett take up that part of the Warfield plan about a distribution of profits over 6 per cent deal with it in a practical manner, both as a railroad man and a lawyer.

There is a feeling that railroad securities are going to come into their own very shortly in the bond houses which deal largely in these securities.

English Railroads in Worse Condition Than Ours

A well-known financier when speaking of the railroad situation in the United States said that perhaps our only real consolation lies in the fact that our neighbors across the Atlantic are in a much worse condition than we are.

His attention to the following recent piece of news on the matter: Sir Eric Geddes, minister of ways and communications of the United Kingdom, in a speech before the House of Commons, said that the condition of the English railroads in the first half of 1919, as compared with the same period of 1913, was from £90,000,000 to £100,000,000 a month, rising steadily, and now foreshadowing a deficit of £60,000,000 for the current year.

Advices received by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce of the Department of Commerce under Minister Geddes as planning to meet this deficit by elimination of competitive services and privatising the railroads by reduction of railroads, electrification, and the decreased cost of traction by gradually improving the loading gauge, by reducing the detention of rolling stock and by standardization of locomotives, etc. He also announced that it is inevitable that for a time freight rates must go up.

Debate in Exchange Only Halted

At the close of last week the opinion was general that in default of some financial relief measure such as was outlined by H. P. Davison, of J. P. Morgan & Co. or the plan of Senator Edge, of New Jersey, the debate in exchange has only been halted. There is a great deal of talk of the probability of sterling falling to even $4 for the pound, or even lower. Leading British bankers along the lines of Lord George's remarkable statement expressed the opinion that Great Britain will have to curtail its purchases even of the raw materials indispensable to that country to a minimum and virtually stop buying everything else from outside countries. The situation is aggravated by the approach to the time of year when there is a heavy American grain going out and later a tremendous movement of our cotton.

The anxiety displayed by foreigners regarding the outlook is reflected by the fact that the rally in sterling of six cents on Thursday caused an almost immediate advance of 100 points in cotton. It is clear by this time to even a novice how disastrous to this country would be a clogging up of our foreign trade. Every point of decline in the European exchanges is so much of an increased embargo on imports of much-needed supplies to Europe.

GERMAN FINANCIER
CRITICIZES AMERICA

Declares This Country is Aiding in Depressing Value of Mark

Leaders Turn to East

Berlin, Aug. 25.—(By A. P.)—George Muech, financial writer for the Tagblatt, criticizes the United States for failing to assist Germany financially and asserts that Americans are even guilty of machination to depress the value of the mark artificially.

"Americans are exploiting Germany's needy situation most selfishly," he declared, "by delaying to grant credit which Germany needs, and depressing the value of the mark with the intention of obtaining such German products as dyes, chemicals and brushes at low prices. On the other hand, they offer American products to German buyers at as high prices as possible. It is poor comfort for us to know that the Americans are playing the same game as their former ally, England."

He says the American government could now show whether it really wishes to help Germans in their work of reconstruction by allowing Germany to enter the American money market.

"Not without reason," he concludes, "do the glances of our economic leaders turn toward the east. It is ever clearer that rescue is to be found there."

The financial writer on the Lokai Anzeiger likewise takes a gloomy view of the financial situation of the world. "Only Germany will save Germany from complete bankruptcy," says the writer. "If Finance Minister Erzberger is able to induce foreign credits to Germany, then disaster can be averted."

He cites an alleged threat of an American financier to remove the mark quotation from the stock exchanges of the world, declaring this would make the mark utterly worthless.

The correspondent was informed at the Dresdener Bank that on an American draft he surely might count on eight marks and probably more per dollar.
